Understanding Flight Change Fees When Booking Through Momondo

Factors That Influence Flight Change Fees:

- Airline Policies: Each airline 1-855-452-1936 has its own policy regarding flight changes, including fees, deadlines, and conditions.

- Ticket Type: Refundable tickets typically have fewer restrictions and lower fees for changes. Non-refundable tickets, however, may incur higher fees or may be completely non-changeable.

Types of Fees You Might Encounter When Changing a Flight

1. Airline Change Fees

Many airlines charge a fee for changing a flight. These fees vary depending on the airline and type of ticket you purchased. Generally:

- Domestic flights: Can have a change fee ranging from $50 to $200.
- International flights: Can have a higher change fee, often between $100 and $400.

2. Fare Difference

In addition to the change fee, you may also be required to pay the difference in fare if the new flight is more expensive than your original booking. If the new flight is cheaper, you may receive a credit or refund, depending on the airline's policy.

3. Non-Refundable Tickets

For non-refundable tickets, airlines typically charge higher fees or may only allow changes for a portion of the ticket value. In some cases, you may not be able to change the flight at all. It's always advisable to review the terms and conditions of your ticket before booking.

4. Third-Party Booking Fees

If you booked through a third-party travel provider (via Momondo), that provider might charge additional fees for changes. These fees can be in addition to the airline's change fees, depending on the provider's policies.

Standalone Statement:

When changing a flight, the change fee is determined by the airline or third-party provider, not Momondo.
