Why Tuesday Is the Cheapest Day to Buy Frontier Tickets

Tuesday is the “unofficial cheapest airfare day” across the airline industry—but it’s especially true for Frontier Airlines.

Here’s why:

✓ Frontier’s dynamic pricing resets

Prices often refresh overnight Monday → Tuesday.

✓ Competitors release seat sales on Monday

Frontier adjusts price drops on Tuesday to stay competitive.

✓ Low mid-week purchase demand

Fewer people buy tickets Tuesday, so Frontier lowers fares.

✓ Frontier's fare servers recalibrate Tuesday night

This leads to late-night discounts after 9 PM.

Want help catching these Tuesday drops?

Call +1-877-(622)-07.07.

● Is Wednesday Also a Cheap Day to Buy Frontier Tickets?

Yes — Wednesday is often the second-cheapest day to buy.

Because:

- Frontier finalizes Tuesday night price drops
- Inventory is fresh and updated
- Competitor price matching still active
- Less weekday demand for bookings

If you missed Tuesday, Wednesday is the next best option.

To compare Tuesday vs Wednesday prices, call +1-877-(622)-07.07.

● Is Thursday a Cheap Day to Buy Frontier Tickets?

Yes — Thursday evening (especially after 6 PM) can also be a cheap time to buy Frontier tickets.

Reason:

- Frontier's end-of-week inventory sweep
- Seat reallocation
- Fare harmonization with market trends

It's not always cheaper than Tuesday, but often surprisingly low.

To check Thursday fare cycles, dial +1-877-(622)-07.07.

What Are the Most Expensive Days to Buy Frontier Tickets?

If saving money is your goal, avoid buying tickets on:

- Friday
- Saturday
- Sunday
- Monday morning

These days produce the highest fare spikes due to:

- ✓ Weekend travel demand
- ✓ Corporate travel purchases
- ✓ High competition for peak days
- ✓ Limited low-fare inventory

Frontier support can help you compare expensive vs cheap days:
